

public spaces private places

we make it our business to understand the context of where we work, and to use our combined experience of landscape, architecture and planning to creatively address a wide range of needs.

play spaces...parks and public space enhancement... schools and community facilities...historic landscapes and gardens...public art trails...conservation areas... redundant docks & regenerating waterspace... creating new places to live, work and play... hotels, pubs and clubs...museums, offices, cafes and shops...and a mix of these and other uses alongside flats and houses to add vitality.

as well as urban areas we have worked for estates and individual owners on projects in the countryside, where a natural context is harnessed to optimise the benefits of investment.

all this flows from an understanding of the needs of those involved in owning, managing, developing and controlling the physical environment, so that the proposal meets the objective.

the right thing... in the right place... at the right time... and making the most effective use of the resources.
